Address Climate Change and Protect Farmland

I want to support the letter from the ACE Coalition and others advocating for three points on the Comprehensive Growth Update:
1. That the county align its GHG emissions targets with those of the City of Vancouver. This will make action and coordination easier to achieve. By working together, the city and county can also share and reduce costs.

2. That it not expand the Urban Growth Boundaries or de-dedesignate agricultural lands. These are necessary to our local food security. If anything, the county should consider how it can help local farmers to stay solvent and protect their ability to grow food locally. One of the best things for me about living in Clark County is that I can drive just a few miles and be able to buy farm-fresh fruits and vegetables at either the farm itself, or at local farmer's markets. I also enjoy having large amounts of green space. We need plants and trees to address Climate Change. As humans continue to spew CO2 into the air, plants and trees are the lungs of the world which breathe in CO2 and produce oxygen for us to breathe.

3. That it draft a supplemental environmental impact statement for up-zoning and in-fill to accommodate affordable housing and employment targets. I see so many empty lots, or empty buildings and shopping centers that are going to waste or could be repurposed. In my neighborhood, the old Albertson's shopping center on 137th Ave & Padden Parkway, has been sitting empty and unused for probably 5-7 years. The area around it has recently been developed with housing, but not really affordable housing.

This old shopping center could be rebuilt with apartments and affordable housing units. It probably covers 2-5 acres.

Please support these points in the growth plan update.
