Hello Chair Marshall, and Councilors Belkot, Fuentes, Little, and Yung.

I am a lifelong resident of Vancouver, and plan to be for the foreseeable future. It is so important to me to have natural spaces in our community, as well as a strong local food system that will withstand climate change. Our local farmlands sequester carbon, provide habitat for local wildlife, and help keep our area cooler than concrete can. I urge you to please not destroy these lands. Continuing to de-designate agricultural land when we there remains sufficient space in existing urban areas for our projected growth would be unconscionable, especially given the warning from the department of commerce that it is unjustified. A dense city is easier for citizens that walk, bike, and use other alternative methods of public transport which are eco-friendly. A Vancouver with little sprawl and ample agricultural land is in the best interest of all.

I second the coalition comment submitted by Brandi Cole, Sept. 9th 2026, and urge you to stop the de-designation of our agricultural lands.

Thank you.
