To whom it may concern,

I am messaging to express my concern about the Clark County Comprehensive Plan, and how the proposed changes will impact our communities long term..

When I first moved here, I was so amazing by all of the beautiful properties, farms, and access to agriculture for an area so close to a major city. Over the years, I have seen our neighborhoods change and decline due to developments, more housing with less parking and support, and how this has impacted our county negatively.

Now, when it comes to the ag land, I am concerned about how we are potentially going to be selling off important resources to more developers who do not have the locals in mind. They care about the cash going into their pockets, and not the neighbors, communities, and tax payers. It has been proven that we have enough land already available and zoned for the next 20 years of growth here in Clark County. Why do we need to rezone more? What is the point in that? Again, it seems like this is just to line the pockets of developers.

Lastly, what are we going to do as more farms go out of business because they cannot affort to keep their operations afloat? What will we do when that happens, and a majority of other ag land is already used up for developments? Where will we grow our food?

It is so important that we keep as many resources as possible local. Local farms. Local food. Local produce. What will we eat when we run out of land to grow the food??? We need to protect our lands for our future communities to be able to enjoy the same resources that have already been slowly disintegrating over the years.

We have enough land for the next 20 years of growth here in Clark County. We do not need to rezone our ag land. Please reconsider these changes, and please listen to the locals, community members, residents, and tax payers who are against this and the damages it will cause Clark County long term.

Thank you,
-Kasey
