To Whom It May Concern:

Special needs families would appreciate more resources in Battle Ground, WA. This community has to drive long distances for therapy services, particularly ABA therapy. Also, the public school system is not created with our sensitive children in mind. The classrooms are small, teachers are overwhelmed, they lack sensory friendly rooms, and the children suffer because of it.

Also, a community center like Firstenberg would be an incredible joy and a place to connect in Battle Ground. There is only one small pool for lessons here, and it's outdoors. Also, there's plenty of room to revamp a park to make it accessible, including things like special swings, wheel chair like zip lines, splash park...

When building new homes, space them out so that families are able to have privacy, a backyard to play in, a front porch to greet and converse with neighbors, and parking for loved ones to visit throughout the year.

Lastly, my son is concerned that our world is becoming a concrete jungle. Save the farmland.

I appreciate your time. Have a blessed day.
