Hi Jenna,

We should support supporting language that supports the policies we are hoping to support. Do I have your support on that?

But seriously, folks. . .

I can live with G6-P4, but the terms "support" and "promote" are really overused, and make the policy read rather awkwardly and, frankly, somewhat stupidly. Just my not-so-humble opinion.

I also have a concern with "incubator spaces." Why is this in an agricultural policy? Do farmers need business incubator spaces? I suggest deleting or moving this.

"New and beginning farmers" is redundant. A new farmer is a beginner, isn't she? A beginner farmer is new, isn't he?

Does farmer succession planning need to specify "retiring?" Isn't this understood?

How about ". . . supporting farmer-friendly long-term leases and programs that facilitate land purchases for new farmers, promoting living-wage agricultural jobs and farmer succession planning, and coordinating agricultural interests through the Clark County Agricultural Advisory Commission."

I like it.

Best,
Brent

Hi Brent,

I wanted to follow-up with you about Climate Element Policy G6-P4. You provided a comment in the Jan-Feb. policy survey that you would be working on some suggested wording revisions for this policy, but it wasn't one we discussed at the last meeting.

If you do have suggested wording revisions, would you be willing to share them by email this week? We'll be working with a subcommittee on the G6 policies and would like to consider your suggestions as part of that work.

Thanks!

Jenna
