Study!

Let our cities retain their autonomy so they can decide how they want to grow!

In December 2024, the Clark County Council voted to move forward with an agricultural lands study as part of the comprehensive plan update. With a new council in 2025, there is an attempt to halt these plans. Without this agricultural lands study, Ridgefield, La Center, and other cities won't have the autonomy or capacity to grow in the way their citizens and council see fit.

Why is the council restricting the autonomy of cities in Clark County? Please explain this. Please stand up for us!!!

Community character is what makes Clark County cities so vibrant, we must protect it! I am urging you to move forward with the study as agreed to in 2024 Councilors *Marshall, Fuentes, Yung, and Little.

Please, please, move forward with the study as agreed to in 2024.

Thank you in advance for reading this email.

Kindest regards,

Sherri Adams
