Hi Becky -

There are no changes that are proposed as a result of the Agricultural Lands Study at this time. The study is still in progress. If any changes are proposed as a part of the study, they would be made later in the process. But I have included many different items that provide more information about the study and the 2025 Comprehensive Plan Update (which the study is a part of) below, in case you are interested.

You can find additional information about the study provided here:

- <https://clark.wa.gov/community-planning/agricultural-lands-study>

And you can sign up for emails about the progress of the study at the address below. Make sure to check the box for “Comprehensive Growth Management Plan”:

- <https://clark.wa.gov/community-planning/get-project-updates>

There was an open house that happened in September related to the study. If you would like to look at the materials from the open house, including maps showing farmlands, irrigation and related information, those are included here:

- <https://clark.wa.gov/community-planning/agricultural-lands-study-open-house>

There are also some meetings that are coming up that you may be interested in attending:

- October Agricultural Study Open House

The county will hold an in-person open house to provide information on the agricultural lands study including the methodology used. Some high-level initial findings will also be discussed. Community members, farmers, neighbors, and anyone interested in agriculture and land use in Clark County is encouraged to attend as follows:

Format: In-Person only

Date: Tuesday, October 28

Time: 5:30 - 7:30 P.M.

Location: Battle Ground Community Center, located at 912 E Main St, Battle Ground, WA 98604

Registration: Attendees are encouraged to register via this link.

- October Agricultural Commission Meeting

This meeting will include a discussion of the Agricultural Lands Study

Format: Hybrid meeting format

Date: Tuesday, October 29 (special date)

Time: 6:00-8:00 P.M.

Location: 6th floor hearing room of the Public Service Center, 1300 Franklin Street,
Vancouver, WA 98666

The Agricultural Lands study is part of the 2025 Comprehensive Plan Update. You can view the changes that are currently proposed as part of the update through this series of "story" maps:

- <https://gis.clark.wa.gov/portal/apps/storymaps/stories/94bbf05580e74214b3e85b6450dc6e66> In addition to the maps, a description of the different proposals is included.

A second map is provided here:

- <https://gis.clark.wa.gov/portal/apps/instant/basic/index.html?appid=26b774bef7964d2c8ce376a8a5937a0b> It doesn't include any explanation, but you can use it to look up specific addresses and see if any changes are proposed in the area. Use the white box in the upper right-hand corner to enter an address.

In addition, if you are interested in commenting, the county recently issued a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) and the comment period is open until Nov. 30. The DEIS/environmental review process will inform the public of potential environmental impacts of proposed growth alternatives that are shown in the maps linked above.

Please let us know if you have any other questions. Thanks!

Susan Ellinger

Good day, Becky,

Thank you for your feedback related to the Sept. 30th Community Workshop regarding the Agricultural Lands Study.

I have forwarded your comments to Staff and will enter these into the Comprehensive Plan Index of Record.

Best regards,

Jeff Delapena

It appeared today for September 30 meeting.

As you decide what to do, increase or decrease, please keep in mind that we need more housing for folks to live in, whether they work on farms or any other industry. Many of us don't have enough help. It could be corrected by allowing for more housing.

Thank you

Becky Graybill.
