We have been Clark County residents for 32 years and are appalled to witness the constant shrinking of our valuable wildlife habitat and agricultural farmlands.

There is no justification for this.

Please prevent the permanent destruction of these necessary areas. The council should not reward cities for failing to have alternatives.

The county's own modeling establishes that all cities can accommodate all projected population growth within existing urban growth areas.

We live in North Clark County and drive through La Center every day; the roads are full.

Sincerely,

James and Patricia Hannon
