Comment

I have commented before this meeting that the change in our zoning to light industrial/westside expansion is not fitting for our neighborhood or the stated goals. 226th and 228th are one acre gated communities of 8 homes. We have HOA and CCR's that state we cannot be used for employment purposes, nor to add ADU's. Small acreage close in properties are hard to find for residential use. We attempted to get BG to change their boundary to NE 224th, but it was after the public comment time. According to The Reflector... With housing growth being a centerfold item in comprehensive growth plans, commerce may get a back seat in some city's plans, but for Battle Ground, job growth is taking a front seat with the urban growth boundary expansion, including Dollars Corner for job expansion. From 92nd Avenue and state Route 502 west to Dollars Corner, Crummett said the city envisions growing the employment landscape in that corridor. Crummett said the goal is to continue improving the city's livability so residents can work where they live
